Doctor Annin is in Eathbun's hands this year, and the young pacer is making a good showing. He stepped a quarter in 29 yesterday. Maloney intended to work some of Browner's Ca's string yesterday, but the mea were at work on the track and he decided to wait until this morning. Akeon, a yearling by Ambassador, will be given a spring opening and have an opportunity to show the kind of stuff that's in him. Election, a 2-year-old by the same sire, will be jugged a hit for the exercise there is in it. Ambassador's 4-year-old son, King Nasir, has good mettle and gives promise of fast time. He will be worked a little this morning also. Vassar, Beile Vera's rapid brother will be given his first opportunity to pace a fast quarter on the track. He's tender yet and has not been worked much this spring, but when he gets a little hardened he will be able to show his heels to anything now at the track. Vassar, although a pacer, will never be so fast as Belle Vera, but nevertheless it is confidently asserted that before snow flies the gamey shie wheeler will be able to swing under the wire in 2.04 flat. Vassar began life as a trotter, but like Direct it was found that the citic metion was his gait, and be has hung to it ever since. that the side motion was his gait, and be has hung to it ever since.

When They Easthe in Norfells.

A returned Norfolk reviewer tells a story on that town. It happened that during his stay he felt the need of a bath, but found the accommodations very meager. However, by tipping a colored attendant very liberally, he accured the use of a tub not then occupied as a bed and performed his ablutions. The next day he happened to ring up the same bellboy, who manifested much surprise.

"Deed, hoss, I s'posed you mus' be in New York or Chicago by dis time."

"Why?" inquired the Washingtonian, "You took a bath yestidday," said the ebony attendant.
